BICYCLE IN WAR.

An English Experiment to Demonstrato Its Usefulness.

A Distance of Eight Hundred Miles Cov-Noven Minutes-Possibilities In Many Lines.

The practice of bicycling has increased with such astonishing rapidity us to have become one of the distinguishing features of modern soeiety. The connection of this art with the development of an extended system of good roads is obviously very close, and as the roads of this country are still to a great extent ill-constructed, the use of the hieyele may be regarded as here in Its infancy. In the older countries, where the density of population is such as to make the expense of building perfect roads tolerable, bicyclers have multiplied to such an extent as to far outnumber, apparently, those who use horses. One satisfactory result of this new system for tourists promises to be the relimblitation of the wayside lin; an Institution which was practically ruined in this country by the decay of the stage coach. An experiment recently tried in England shows that it is not improbable that the art of war may receive some modification from this new method of movement. A chib of cyclists, wishing to show what might be done in the way of carrying dispatches in thue of war, when other means of communication had broken down, asked the war office to let them carry a dispatch from London to Edinburgh and bring back a reply. The war office, with APRELISMS. Texas the usual stupidity of a government to do with the matter, but it was arranged with the Pall Mall Gazette that their offices in the two cities should be used as terminl. Relays of eyelists, rlding in pairs to nvoid loss of time by necident, were duly stationed, and the letter once started was carried through England, us the Spectator says, like a flery cross. The weather was extremely bad, the rain falling in torrents and a head wind being encountered all 'the way to Edinburgh. Neverthe less between 10 o'clock of a Thursday morning and 2:27 of the next Saturday the dispatch was carried to its destination and the answer brought back. The distance of 800 miles was thus covered in 52 hours and 27 minutes, nn average of 15} mlles an hour. In the very best days of coaching the shortest time made between London and Edinburgh was 42 hours and 23 minutes. Such a result as this will open tho eyes of the war offices of the continent If not of England. It Indicates that we may presently see bodies of cyclists attached as orderlies to the staff of every general. Nor is it improbable that such a body would not take the place, for many purposes, of cavalry. The same causes that lead men to sell their horses and take to bleyeles will be operative in military economy. In this peaceful land we may not witness such a development of bleveling as this; but we shall be contented if it leads to the improvement of our roads and hostelries .- N. Y. Evenlng Post,

Illusive Sounds.

A new fad adopted by owners of phonographs is the collection of cylinders that give forth musical notes of un odd character obtained directly from nature, such as the song of birds, the chirp of insects, and even the cries of wild animals in enptivlty. One of the pleasures derived from such a collection consists in submitting the notes to others for identification. Recently, in searching for sounds still more funciful, a young woman of Philadelphia discovered u secret of acoustics not noted in any of the books on that science und which she terms "an auricular illusion." Arranging eight sea shells of differing size so as to form un octave she expected to record the roar of the seans heard within them-first from nearby breakers and then gradually diminishing to a distant shore-but though she could distinctly hear the roar with something of this effect whenever she applied her eur to the lips of the Vienna's Novel Exhibition.

Vienna will have a novel exhibition in the winter of 1895-96, the arrangements for which have just been made. It is to be a collection of all objects of interest connected with tho congress of Vienna in 1814-15, which redivided Europeufter the fall of Napoleon. It will include portraits of the persons who took part in the congress -Melterulch, Tulleyrnud, Wellington, Castlercagh—and other distinguished men of the time; paintings of the chief occurrences during the session of the congress, and reproduetlens of the fashions, uniforms, court dressen and furniture of the the Light. Scientists have recently introduced a novelty in the animal world In the shape of the linophryne lucifer, but it is a deal easier to call it by its everyday name-the torchfish. He is a deep-sea fish carrying on his nose an ergan which he can illuminate with a phosphoreseent light or extinguish at pleasure. He does not use his lantern to gulde bin on his pathless course in the dark depths of ocean or enable him to look around him, but when mealtime comes he lights up to attract smaller fishes, which, mistaking the lantern for a phosphorescent insect, dark straight for it, only to had their way into the capacious jaws of linophryne lucifer.

The mode in which the lautern is lighted and extinguished is not yet clearly understood. Nikola Tesla, the embent electrician, is of the opinion that if such a fish exists, and if it has the attributes credited to it, it is very strange that neither Lord Rayleight nor Prof. S. P. Langley had made any mention of it in their researches. Mr. Tesla is also of the opinion that if the phosphorescence does exist it is not of an electrical origin.

G. Brown Goode, assistant secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, writes of the torchilish: "It is not positively known that the organ on the nasal filament of linophryne is luminous, although it appears probable. The idea that the fish has the power of illuminating it at pleasure is, so fur as I know, purely conjectural, the idea having been suggested by Dr. Gunther, of the British museum. I think no one has seriously supposed that the phosphorescence ls due to an electrical source."-Philadelphia Press.

Novel Way of Saving a Burning Vessel.

One of the most brilliant pieces of oceun-wrecking seumanship on record, whereby the vessel, far out In the Atlantic with her cargo on fire, was saved und brought safely to port, was performed on board the American ship John Jay, commanded by Cnpt. Samuel Jackson.

When two weeks out the cargo was discovered to be on fire. The captain determined upon his course of action. He had the carpenter lowered over the rail, and instructed him to bore several holes low down by the wnter line. The vessel was then put on the other tack so that she would be heeled over on the side where the holes had been made.

The water shot through these openings, and after the ship had been ullewed to sink almost to the level of the deck, she was put around on the other tack again, so that the holes came within two or three fect of the top of the water. Several of the sallors, with lines made fast under their arms and holding long wooden pegs and hammers, slid down along the side, steadying themselves by ropes that had been passed under the vessel und hauled taut, so that they came alongside of the holes. The tapering pins were thrust into the openings and knocked tight, then the vessel was put before the wind to get her on an even keel, and the erew turned to and pumped her out.-Harper's Young Peonle.

Nitrogen Obtained from the Air. Lord Rayleigh and Prof. Ramsay have announced the discovery of a new element. Nitrogen obtulued from the nic, it was observed, has a density different from that of pitrogen obtained from other sources. Nitrogen obtained from the atmosphere was accordingly treated with imagnesium, with the result that the nitrogen was ubsorbed, but a residuo remained. This residue was the new element-a dense and inert gas twen- ; ty-one times heavier than hydrogen and lifty percent, heavier than nitrogen. Its spectrum is a single blue line more intense than the corresponding line of nitrogen. Prof. Dewar, the gas liquefier, is skeptical as to the new element, but confesses that in liquefying nitrogen he has always found it "clouded by a white deposit."-Baltimore Sun.

A Laughing Plant.

A "laughing plant" grows In Ara-It obtains its name from the effects produced by eating its seeds, The natives of the district where the plant grows dry these seeds and reduce them to powder. A small dose of this powder has similar effects to those arising from the excessive use of intoxicants. It causes the most soher person to dunce and laugh, with the boisterous excitement of a madman, and to rush about, cutting the most ridiculous capers, for an hour. At the expiration of this time exhaustion sets in and the excited person falls asleep, to wake no consumption. Isn't this the solution? No

He Tells Interesting Incidents of Hls Dangerous Business.

Hle Home Is lu a WEd Valley in Sullivan County, New York - He Finds His Strange Occupation a Profitable One.

In a wild valley at the foot of a rocky and precipitous mountain, near the little bainlet of Long Eddy, lu Sullivan county, N. Y., is the home of John C. Geer, whose business is the charming of rattlesnakes. This eccentric Individual who lives In this isolated spot is known throughout that part of the country as "the rattlesnake man." Though over sixty years of age, he is as active almost as he was twenty years ago, and for n mountaineer, born and reared in that untutored country, where people of any kind are seurce, he possesses a rare intelli-

A better lasight into his strange and dangerous business cannot be given than by the following story, told by himself: "I have been engaged in catching rattlers at the foot of this mountain for many years. Some seasons l get from two to three hundred of them, many of which I tame and ship alive to museums in New York and other cities. I kill a good many and extract the oil, for which I find a rendy salo at from two to tive dollars an ounce. The skins are worth from one to five dollars each, according to their size and condition.

This mountain back of my house Is fairly alive with rattlesnakes; thousands of them live there in their lairs in the crevasses of the rocks. One day last year I started out below my house, und in two hours and a half caught twenty-two rattlers and a black sanke. I caught the snakes with a book or snare and put them into a bag, in which I bring them home. Do they ever bite me? Well, sometimes, but very seldom, as I know what a rattlesnake's bite s, and un always very careful how I handle them. Six or seven times they have been too smart for me, and have sunk their fangs into my lands, but I um alive yet, and I have an infallible cure for the poison. The bltes always leave a sear, though, as you will see by the back of my hand." This hand has deep scars, which look like a very pronounced pockmark, and these, the 'rattlesnake mmu" declures, are the results of the bites he has recelved. The 'infallible' cure which Mr. Geer used is composed by himself. Certain it is, he has been called upon many times to save people who have been struck by the polon-laden fangs of rattlesnakes, and his remedy has never failed to cure.

No less weird and interesting than the man is his rude log house, which is always the home of from a dozen to thirty or more of the venomous reptlles. These are kept in boxes, and many of them are very tame, actually seeming to be fond of their master. It does not take the old man long to subdue these wild creatures, and he often has them erawling ubout the floor while he smakes his pipe and meditates. Ho is fond of having visitors come to see his pets, though few persons can be persuaded to enter his den of ratlers and black snakes. This amuses the old man, as long association has taken away every vestige of fear of having them harm him, and he thinks no more of handling the reptlles than if they were pluyful kittens .- cake. N. #### A Product of the Strike.

The "bicycle stump," which was brought into existence in Sun Francisco by the recent rnilroad strike, is likely to be much prized by stamp collectors. For more than u fortnight San Francisco was practically cut off from all ruilroad communication, and a bicycle mail service was gotten up by the agent of a bicycle munufucturer between that city aud Fresno, a distunce of about twenty miles. It continued for four days, when the blockade was raised. Stamps and stamped envelopes were hustily designed, and several hundred printed, the stamps being sold nt twenty-five cents npiece and the envelopes at thirty cents. Of the three hundred and eighty letters carried three hundred and fifteen were stamped and forty were sent in stamped envelopes. Used specimens are already commanding u high premium in San Francisco, the papers of that city say, as high as tive dollars being paid for the stamps, while the used envelopes are expected to bring from live to ten dollars each.-N. Y. Tribune.

THE PAINS OF MARRIAGE. AN INQUIRY.

My unele cume to a stop outside a stationer's shop in Oxford street. When I saw what had caught his attention I reproached myself for my thoughtlessness.

"Come," said I, "tell me what you think of-of representative government.

"It's no good, George. You dld the sume thing at the cake shop. Do you think I never saw the cake sliop? Since this uffair was settled I think every shop I pass reminds me of it -even the gunsmith's. I never suspected before how entirely retuil trade turned on marriage-except, perhaps, the second-hand book shops. The whole world seems bent on marrying.

'It's queer," said he, "that u little while ngo the thing that worried me to the exclusion of everything else was the idea of being married, and now it is so near it's entirely the getting married that upsets me... I have forgotten the horrld couse-: quences in the horror of the opera-

"It's much the same," said I, "at! an execution.

"Look at those cards." He waved hls hand towards a neat array of silver and white pasteboard. " 'Jemima Smith,' with an arrow. through the Smlth, and 'Podger' written above it, and on the oppositeside 'Mr. and Mrs. John Podger.', That is where it has me, George."

We went on past u displny of electre-plate with a card about presents in the window, past a window full of white flowers, past a carriage-bullder's and a glove shop. "It's like death," sald my uncle; "it turns up everywhere and is just the same for everybody. In that cake shop there are piles and piles of cakes, from little cakes ten inches across up to cakes of three hundred-weight or so; all just the same rich, uneatable, greasy stuff, and with just the same white sugar on top of them. I suppose every day they pack off scores. It makes one think of marrying in swarms, like the gnats. I catch myself wondering sometimes if the run of people really are separate individuals, or only a kind of replica, without any tastes of their own. There are people who would rather not murry without one of those cakes, George. To me it seems to be ulmost the most asinine position a couple of udults can be in, to have to buy u stone or so of that concentrated biliousness and cut it up, or procure other people to cut It up, and send it round to other adults who would almost as soon eat arsenie. And why cake-infantlle cake? Why not biscuits, or cigurettes, or chocolate? It seems to me to be playing the fool with a selemn occa-

My uncle looked at me.

"You see," said I, "when a woman says you must do this or that-must have cuke ut a wedding, for instance -you must do it. It is not a case for argument. It is a kind of privilege they have-the categorical lmperative. You will soon learn that." Evidently the question was open.

But why do they say you must?" "Other women tell them. They would despise anyone dreadfully who did not have a really blg cake from that shop.

'My deur uncle," said I, "you arô going into matrimony. You do not show a proper spirit. "The cake," said my uncle, "is only a type. There is this trousseun business again. Why should a woman who is going to marry requiro a complete outfit of that sort? Then the costume. Why should a saue healthy woman be covered up in

in u shop window when the files are about? And why-?" He was going on in quite an agt said, "for any of it." This sort of talk always leritates a murrled man because it revives his own troubles. "It's just the rule. Surely, if a wife is worth having she is worth being ridiculous for? You ought to be jolly glad you don't have to wear a fool's cup und paint your nose red.

'More precious than rubies'-" "Don't," he sald. "It must be these tradesmen," he began bltterly, after an interval. Someone must be responsible, and it's just their way. Do you know, George, I sometimes funcy that they have hypnotized womankind into the belief that all these uncomfortablo things are absolutely necessary to a valid murrlage-just as they have persuaded the lundlady class that no house is complete without a blg mirror over the fireplace and a bulgy sideboard. There is a very strong flavor of mesmerio suggestlon about a woman's attitudo toward these matters, considered in sense. Do you know, George, I really believe there is u secret soclety of tradesinen, a kind of priest-hood, who get hold of our womankind and muddle them up with all these fancles. It's u sort of white magic. Have you ever been in a draper's shop, George?" "Never," I said; "I always wait outside. "Have you ever read a ladies" newspaper?" "I didn't know," said I, "that there wus any part to read. It's all udvertisements; ull the articles are advertisements, all the paragraphs, the stories, the answers to correspondents-everything."

"That's exactly what makes me think the tradesmen have hypnotized the sex. It may be they do it in those drapers' dens. A man spots that kind of thing at once and drops the paper. Women go on year after year, simply worshipping a paper hoarding of that kind, and doing patiently everything they are told to do therein. Anyhow, it is only in this way that I can account for all these expensive miseries of matrimony. I can't understand a woman in full possession of her faculties deliberately exasperating the man she has to live with-I suppose all men submit to it under protest -for all these stale and stereotyped antics. She must be magnetized. "They are not stale to her." I

"Mrs. Harborough-" he began. "Of course, a widow!-I forgot," I sald. "But she seems so young, you know."

"And putting aside the details, said my uncle with a translent dash of cheerfulness at my mistake, 'I object to the publicity of the whole thing. It's not nice to bring the lections and all legal business attendstreet arub into the affair, to sub- ed to. Office 329 E. "It would be like him if he did." I said. "I funcy he will."

"I can't go and kiek hlm," sald my uncle. "Declined with thanks," I suggested, "owing to pressure of other

Railroad Building In Corsica.

After going about half the distunce between Corto and Vizzavonu, the evidences of the construction of the intermediate sections of the railroud became apparent. The laborers on the excuvations for the bridges and in the heavy cuts were many of them women, young girls and boys and all, including the men, carried the dirt and stone out in baskets on their heads. By this slow, toilsome method is all this work done, and it appeared to me that the work would be interminable, but I was told that the contractors were under heavy bonds to complete the road in the time contracted for, and that lt would certainly be accomplished.-Churles II. It is not sufficient to answer that "our neighbors" decided that question of right between Protection in 1832 and Free Trade 1892, by electing Mr. Clevelond a Free Trade platform in the latter year. "Our neighbors" answered that question in favor of Protection in 1832 by electing Jackson. So there.

MR. BLACKBURN in his speech said that the $9,000,000 appropriated in bounties under the McKiuley bill to encourage the production of sugar in the UnitedStates was too much to pay for the Louisiana Democrats, who have heads of their own, and especially was it too much he said, while the Democrats could buy negroes so much cheaper in this country. how much would he be willing to pay those LouisianaD emocrats? and what price, pray, has the Democracy set on the negro vote of this country? Shame be upon the sentiment and on him who uttered it.

WE learn that Judge Gully, Republiean eandidate for Judge of the Court of Appeals, closed a canvass of the ten counties of the 3rd Congressional District at Bowling Green last Saturday night. The Republicans are eathneiastically for him and feel confident of his election. Many voters who are not Republicans are anxious for the election of Judge Guffy and are supporting him earnestly and effectually. If the people of this Appellate District desire to elect n man to the high office in question who is able, honest and competent and who will always decide cases squarely and who will never be swayed by rings or cliques, they will vote for Judge Gutly.

ALONG with Mr. Blackburn's plen of the "untranamelled voice of the people," might be read the following extract from the recent Associated Press dispatches from Washington, which indicates the financial straights of the National Democratic Congressioual Committee.

The dispatch says:

"So serious has the situation become that Chairman Faulkner has determined to raise money, even i extraordinary efforts are resorted to The assessment plan on Government employes will be worked in the artistic manner that avoids conflict with the civil service law, and the various State organizations in Washington will be reminded that the retention in the Government service for any of their number is conditional only upon the possession of a receipt of money contributed."

The statement comes from good authority that Pension Commissions er Lochren has a list of 50,000 old soldiers whose pensions are to reduced or stopped altogether within the space of a few weeks. This list, it is asserted, will be held up until alter friend? No man guilty of the undethe election to relieve the Democratic party of the stigma of such a wholesale reduction. Democratic Administration. WE noticedlast week the various positions the Democratic party has assumed on the Tariff question during the past 60 years. To him who cares to know the history of parties and of questions connected with them, the story is interesting. But to him who pius his face and faith to the coat tail of an inconsistent and shifting party, it brings only rebuke and condemnation. Beginning in 1832 on a platlorm declaring unequivocally for Protection and closing in 1892 with a statement as nuequivocal lor Free Trade, the party floundered between these doctrines and these ilates in a manner that would rather appeal to one's pity than his condemnation, if within these very flounderings had not been wrapped in great measure, the interest of the common country. Wednesday while at work dlgging a well at Rosine, a Mr. Johnson was struck by the "damp," and fell unconscious on the bottom. Mr. H. P. Watts hastily tied a rope around his own body and lowered himself to the side of the prostrate man and tying a rope around the latter called to the men above to draw him out. As the body of Johnson was about half way to the top of the well it slipped through the rope, falling heavily to the hottom. Mr. Johnson's head was seriously cut in the lall. Before Mr. Wutts could again replace the rope around Johnson's body he fell overcome and wis drawn out. Every body was now afrald to go into the well to rescue Johnson and a pair of grab hooks were used in raising him. Both men were doing well in Louisville. Mr. W. L. Spalding yesterday, but have not yet recovered came down Saturday, and returned from the evil effects of the stroke Sunday.

Report of the Obta County Teachers

Ohio County Teachers' Association met in College Hall, Saturday Oct., 13, 1894. Our Superintendent being absent, Prof. O. M. Shuitz very ably presided over the meeting.

The first business attended to was the election of a Secretary, then the program was rendered.

The first to respond was Prof. Wm. Foster, who gave a very interesting talk on the "Signs of the times" He gave some good points for teachers, among which was the necessity of a thorough preparation for the work, and said that education is now within the reach of all and those who did not grasp the opportunities that we have for preparing for life will have to take a seat in the back

Next on duty were Messrs. Stum. Tinsley and O. M Shultz, with the subject of Theory and Practice.. Mr. Shultz being the only one present he didu't feel like handling such an important subject without assistance. but none being given, he proceeded with the subject and told us that what a teacher needs is a practical theory and that the more theorizer may "git" along for a while, but will finally be crowded out by better teachers. Mr. Stogner then volunteered to talk on the same subject, but if he touched the subject at all we tailed to note it. He merely compared the country teacher to the teacher in the high school. Prol. E. R. Ray gave a good illustration of Arithmetical signs, followed by discussions by the teachers. All being very hungry, prelested dinner to the further discussion of the program, so at 12:15 the House adjourned to meet at 2 o'clock. At two o'clock the house was called to order by Chairman Shultz and the work was resumed.

The subject, "Are we professionally qualified," was discussed by Messrs. Stum and Ray, and Miss Gibson gave her reasons tor teaching, also some of the others gave their reasons for teaching.

"What have I accomplished in School Grading?" was discussed in general by the teachere present. Some cross grade while others do not. R. A. London and C. H. Ellis were appointed to assist the Superintendent in making out a program tor the

Tuesday night, October 9th, 1894, ns the hours passed swiftly by, the a dear, loved one, at Leitchfield, Ky, Mrs. Fannie Davis, wife of Samuel Davis, daughter of E. F. and S. E. 22 days, breathed her last. She was a member of the Christian church, had been looked for almost hourly for many months hefore the time came. She had been a sufferer of that dread disease, consumption, for a long time; and when the end came it was relief to her father and motherf sisters and brothers and friends to think she had no more sufferings to bear. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. B. A. Cundlfl, of the M. E. Church, South, at 3 p. m. on wednes day, and all that was mortal of Mrs Fannie Davis, was tollowed to the Barton cemetery, where it was gently laid to rest to await the Judgment

HIS AMERICAN WIFE. What the English Chancellor of the Exchequer Owes to Her. Sir William Vernon-Harcourt owes his cureer as a polltician almost entirely to his wife. Lady Harcourt, before she was Lady Harcourt, was a Mrs. Ives, snys the New York World. She is an American, the daughter of Prof. John Lathrop Motley, the historian and intlmate friend of Prince Bismark. When Mr. Ives died he left her a fascinating and wealthy widow, and sho thereupon invested her handsome self and handsome fortune in the then rising politician Mr. Vernon-Hareourt.

Vernon-Harcourt was always a pompous person and boasted that In his veins ran the blood of tho Piantagenets, and that-how ho made It out It Is difficult to say-ho had a better title to the crown of England than Queen Victoria. He was tali, handsome, witty and had that indefinable look of the typical Engilsh nobleman, which somehow reminds one always of a well-fed

All these distinguished qualities were too much for Mrs. Ives and she succumbed to his irresistible charms, and then something dreadful happened; something that threatened to spoil the even course of the romance of true love.

It was discovered that Harcourt had a past. A lurid incident in his life was raked up and Mrs. Ives shivered. She did not like to mingle her irreproachable life with that of a man whose future might resemble

There was a struggle between purity of mind and softness of heart and finally, fortunately for Harcourt, the latter gained the day.

Lady Harcourt has made a model statesman's wife. Her devotion to preciation of his worth by their genher husband has been marvelous. She has always kept herself in the background and entirely merged ber ldentity in that of her lord and

What has endcared her chiefly to English polltleians is her wonderful tact as a hostess. Sir William Harcourt is a most trying lushand. He is in the habit of bringing people home to dinner. He will ransack the lobbics of the house and come home when parliament is in session with a whole troop of hungry politiclass, sometimes thirty, sometimes only two. His wife can aever know how many. But she keeps an excellent cook and has a marvelous temper. Everbody is invariably well received and the dinners are always good, for Sir William Is a gourmand. These wholesale hospitalities have done much to help Sir William on In his career, but they have not suceecded in making him popular, however much they may have added to the popularity of his wife. Lady Harcourt is the mother of very aniable young man, who is deservedly a favorite in society for his gentic manners and genuine goodness of heart. His father is extremely proud of hlm. Unfortunately, the young man is delicate and has been obliged to withdraw from the arduous life of politics.

Chinese Antipathy to the Telegraph.

The two American bleyclers, Allen and Sachtleben, tell in the Century of their meeting with a Chinaman In the heart of the flowery kingdom who electrified them by addressing them in the purest English. "He was one of that party of mandarlds' sons which had been sent over to our country somo years ago, as an experiment by the Chinese government, to receive a thorough American training. We cannot here give the history of that experiment, as Mr. Woo related it-how they were subsequently accused of cutting off their queues and becoming denationalized, how, in consequence, they were recalled to their native land, and degraded rather than elevated, both by the people and the government. because they were foreign in their sentiments and habits; and how, at last, they gradually began to force recognition through the power of merit aione. He had now been sent out by the government to engineer the extension of the telegraph line from Su-chou to Urumtsi, for it was At 4 o'clock the lew present ad- feared by the government that the employment of a foreigner in this capacity would only increase the power for evil which the actives already attributed to this foreign innovation. The similarity in the phrases telegraph pole and dry heaven had inspired the common bellef that the line of poles then weary watchers around the bedside of stretching across the country was responsible for the long-existing drought. In one night several miles of poles were sawed short off, by the secret order of a banded coaspiracy. After several decapitations, the poles were now being restored, and labelled with the words: 'Put up by order of the emperor.'"

HART COUNTY.

A Grand Ovation is Tendered Mr. Lewis.

Mumpordsville, Kv., Oct. 13, '94.

Hon, John W. Lewis opened his campaign in Hart county at this place on the 1st. He was greeted with a demonstration the most siguificant of all Republican gatherings in Hart county since the days of her birth. The gathering early in the day of thousands of citizens on the streets presented the appearane of the population of a metropolis. The Court House where the speaking was held, was long before the hour appointed, filled to overflowing with people, auxious to hear the truthful enunciations of the sound! doctrines, which the uble orator and statesman, so effectually presented. It was a demonstration calculated to inspire the orator, for lu addition to the handsome and elaborate decorations, by the ladies of the town and vicinity, there were people to the right of him, people to the left of him, people in front of him, who for two long hours were held spell-bound by the eloquent drippings of the truth, which so learly concern the prosperity and happiness of every true American citizen, and who at intervals, by their outbursts of enthusiasm clearly indicated that his majority in Hart county is a cetainty. At the close of his nasterly effort the speaker was showered with boquets and greetings innumerable, many former Democrats colunteering greetings of success and promises of support.

At Hardwille on the 2d the crowd was not diminished and the enthusiasm was unabated. On the 3d Horse Cave vied with their neighbors in presenting a demonstration, which speech in the county was made at Bonnieville on the night of the 3d, though almost impromptu, was responded to by over one thousand enthusiastic citizens, who cheered his sledge hammer blows to the echo. At each and all of his appointments Mr. Lewis gave good reasons for refusing a joint discussion with Mr. Montgomery, which are unanimously accepted by his friends and the better element of his political enemies. With this unprecedented turn of aflairs on the part of some of the henchmen of the great Elizabethtown dehater, they will have to seek other below. straws at which to grab in this the greatest time of their emergency. Mr. Lewis left on the 4th for his nome in Washington county, leaving behind him hundreds of old triends and scores of new ones, who on the 6th of November, will show their ap-

1114 Resp'y W. H. MOORE. College Happenings. The golden autumn days have come, impressing us with the truth that the world is ever changing. It is apparent on every hand that all nature which was but a short time ago a paragon of loveliness, is now fast losing its beauty. All the world indicating that the shadows of death are silently but surely creeping over the present year. The frailties of the external world directs our minds to the glories of the intellectual sphere, where from its amaranthine bowers, we may pluck bright jewels for an immortal crown.

We are truly proud that our College active, and energetic students of our land-those that are delving faither and farther into the realities of life, developing many bright and precious truths. We are daily impressed with the fact that the world is placing a day cultivated mentality is the only transport from the lowly to the billion two hundred and eighty-five great, and we look forward to the

The officers of the Kennet, like all sailors, are afraid of the tarantulas and scorpions, and now that ber cargo is being discharged every effort will be made to rid the ship of the plague before sile salls from here. Banana-Inden ships frequently bring with their car tarantules, but this ship is fairly alive with them. The only rellef the erew of the Kennet had on their voyage north was on the day before sighting the capes, when the cold weather caused their disappearance from the decks. As the eargo was being discharged it was found to be actually alive with both scorpions and tarantuias. The old sallors on board the Kennet say they will never ship in a logwood-Inden vessel again, and remain now only in the fear that desertlen would cause a forfeiture of their wages. -Philadelphia Press.

A Family Carriage. There are thousands of hicycle riders in Buffalo, fast racers and faney nich, women who do their "eentury" in a day and many other varieties of the genus hicyclist. But so far as we are aware there is oalv one man in Buffalo or anywhere else who has successfully converted his bicycle into a family earriage with comfortable seats for five. That is Mr. Henry J. Von Scheldt, with his four boys. On setting out the wheel is steadied by the father and Jehnny, the youngest, is lifted lato his place; then Arthur is established in front of him, and Willie climbs to hls place in front of ali. The father thea takes the saddle and when under slow headway Henry ruas after and mounts to his seat behind. In this way the father and four boys have ridden over five hundred mlles this season, visiting Laneaster, Tonawanda, Bellevue and other nelghboring towns, where, as in Buffaio's parks and streets, they are always much gazed at and admired. They have aever had an accident. The frame which provides the extra seats for the children was built by Mr. Von Scheldt himseif: It can be taken off in a minute and a half and replaced in three minutes .- Buffalo Express.

A Bust of Herod the Great.

The Imperial Hermitage at St. Petersburg has just been enriched by a valuable historical and archaelogical relic, viz.: The hust of Herod the Great, the ruler of Judea in the days of our Saviour. This bust, says the St. Petersburg correspondent of the Dublin Irish Catholic, was discovered some years ago in Palestiae by the Russian archimandrite Anthony, the late head of the Russian mission in Jerusalem, and has been pronounced by experts to be genuine and the only one of Herod existlng in our times. This valuable treasure has been bequeathed to the Hermitage by the deceased archlmandrite.

Morning Gown Reading a Letter. Mrs. Carruthers-Smith (reads)-'Dear Mother"-It Is very absurd of Beatrice to insist on addressing me In that way. It does not so much matter in a letter, but I have so often told her I wished her to call me dearest. We young mothers with elderly daughters owe so much to Mrs. Hodgson-Burnett for Inventing that name for us. (Reads). "Dear Mother-A friend of mine will call on you to-morrow - a Mr. Basli Eversley. He has something to ask youl" Dear, dear, how dellelously old-fashloned the child Is! Fancy sending her lover to me in this formal way. (Reads). "I have told him to call upon you about twelve. Please be nice to him and say 'yes.' Yours, affectionately, Beatrice." Well, so she's going to be married. How delightfull A grown-up daughter who has not a husband is so very trying. What a splendid excuse it will be for running over to Paris for the trousseau. Basil Eversley! I seem to know that name; but, of course. Beatrice's set Is quite different from mine, and, naturally, her Aunt Evelyn would have the right people to meet her. I wonder if I shall like him?-not that It matters. At any rate, I shall soon see; he'll be here at tweive, she says. (A ring). There he is. This has been all along is so small that it would hardly the chief drawback to the electric light, and for the length of time it has been known its use has gone little beyond that in public places. Cooking by electricity has hardly reached that point of being in comnon use in public places, but it bids fair to do so in the near future. The heat in the range in which coal Is used is not so intense as the appliance through which the electric current passes, and the latter is also more readily controlled. Then there is no raking of ashes, no soiling of the hands with coal-dust, and no hot | for him to come to me and tie it. stove llds to lift and burn the fingers. Then the intrustry of the heat is regulated for the different vlands at pleasure. The popularity of cooking in this manner will after Basil Eversley - Perhaps - but awhile appeal to those who live in small flats, where in the summertime the kitchen and the diningroom may be with comfort one and the same room.-Hardware.

The Beer of the World.

Statistles have been complled at Vienna of the quantity of beer drank in 1893 in the entire world. Germany heads the list with 1,202,132,-074 gallons, an Increase of 34,000,-000 over 1892, the consumption being thirty-three gallons per head, ranging from sixly-two gallons la Bavaria to twelve gallons ln Lothringen. Great Britain second. 1,165,752,000 gallons, or thirty per head. America, including the whole of the western hemisphere, is third with more than 1,000,000,000 gallons, or sixteen perhead. The total for the world, not including Asla and Africa, is 4,500,000,000 gallons, requiring 7,270,000 tons of malt and 82,000 tons of hops.

"Have you the bullet that killed Gen. Reynolds?" asked an old vettle details, you know-who are your eran of a youngster who kent a relie stand on the battlefield of Gettysburg. "No, sir," was the reply, "we sold the last one yesterday, but we can have you one by to-morrow." Many a boy living near one of the great batticfields obtains a living by hunting relles. Having sharp eyes, he is generally fortunate enough to pick up some remains of the "great dealer or directly to visitors. One boy, not long ago, at Getlysburg, found a wrist bone, with a bayonet plunged through It, which he sold for twenty-five dollars. Another, on the field of Wnterloo, found two bullets imbedded in each other, the one French, the other English. They had evidently met in midalr and were valued very highly.

Travelers who have spent any thine among the natives of Australia vow that the boys of that country earn money in the most curious way ever heard of. In some parts of the country fishing Is quite an industry. Among other things caught are erabs and crawfish.

But instead of catching them in nets as we do, poys are employed, and this is the method: A boy wades out where the crabs are thick. Thrusting his foot out, he gives prominence to his big toe, which, wagging about in an enticing manner, he uses as bait.

In a short time he gets a bite, and quickly drawing up his leg he breaks off the crab's feelers and throws them into a basket which is slung over his shoulder.

Every now and then n deep sea visitor strays luto the eral settlement, and, seeing the tempting balt, lays hold of it. Then there issues from the owner of that balt an unenrthly yell, and all the boys come running out to stare, entirely regardless of the crabs hanging to the several parts of their anatomy, and leaving the boy with a "bite" to battle with the unwelcome catch as best he can.

Chinese urchins, in some parts of the empire, plek up odd coins in a still more eurious and yet somewhat similar manner. THE CHINESE NAVY. Her Effective Ships Were Built in European Yards.

Chinn has long recognized the neessity of a muy, and her fleet of war-junks was, before the introduction of Engopean-built ships of war, very extensive, but her experience In the "opium war" with Great Britain led her to suspect that possibly these vessels of venerable design were not all she imagined them to be; but events move slowly in China, and twenty-five years elapsed before that suspicion became a certainty and she could bring herself to believe that her war-junks were worthless. In 1867 and in 1868 some gunboats were bullt for her in England, and a few in her own ports, but they were all small, and it was not until 1872 that a 3.400-ton wooden frigate, constructed of Chinese labor under forelgn direction, was launched at Shanghai. Since then a number of composite and one steel vessels have been turned out by the Chinese dock yurds, the three largest of ed, slender - throated sisters, and them being 2,500 tons displacement, the balance of less than 1,800 tons; so that to-day her really effective ships, viz., five armored, four proteeted and thirteen partially protected vessels, were furnished by European ship yards. On January 1, 1886, the ships of war, which up to that thre had been attached to provinces, under the orders of the viceroys, were, by imperial decree, merged into a national navy, and under the direction of a munt board of control, established at Peking.

At last accounts there was no fixed limit to the officers and men, the number being regulated by the requirements of the service.

There are two naval neademles, one at Foodhoo, the other at Tien-Tsin. The entering age of the candidnte is from thirteen to twenty years, and the course extends over five years. It embraces the study of English and the regular scientific studies pertaining to the naval profession. The cadets then go to sea for a further three years, and after a final examination become officers. In addition to the two academies there are schools of navigation, of marine engineering and for torpedo instruction at Tien-Tsin. Dock yards have been established nt Shanghai, Canton, Foochoo, Takoo and Port Arthur, and arsenals fight," which he either sells to a at Pocchoo and Tien-Tsin.

The test of all this new system has come in the present war, for it is the first time that the men have fought under educated native offieers, and it will show how much of all this scheme is real, or whether China is to add one more to the long list of her defeats. - Harper's
